

Young people from the Go 4 it! Project celebrated their achievements with an award ceremony at the Washington Central Hotel in Workington. Go 4 it! a pilot project is working with a core group of pupils from Southfield Technology College to involve them in activities which will encourage them to raise their aspirations, have confidence in their abilities and support them in reaching their potential and as the project says 'Go 4 it!' Feedback from the young people, parents and the school has been positive.

One parent said

" Through involvement in the project my daughter has much more confidence and a sense of worth"

One young person said "

"Without the project I would not have believed what I could have done recently"

another

" I NOW THINK I HAVE A BETTER CHANCE FOR LIFE IN THE NEAR FUTURE"

Feedback from school

"Southfield has recognised the enthusiasm that the project has brought about ~ students recognise the importance of education and all it offers and are more positive about their own prospects. The activities have focused them on their potential and alerted them to what is on offer in terms of higher education."

The project plans to work with the young people until they leave school.
